Dayle Benson, MHA Executive Director, University of Utah Medical Group

Dayle is the Executive Director of the University of Utah Medical Group (UUMG). As such, she is responsible for leading a physician driven organization focused on the Group's clinical business goals, including clinical operations management, contracting and reimbursement, information technology, finance and operations, strategic planning, clinical outcomes, customer service, credentialing, and many other group-wide initiatives.

Prior to joining the University in 1998, Dayle was the Executive Director of Business Development for St. Joseph Hospital in Orange, California. Over the past 25 years, her career has been focused in various aspects of health care business development and operations, such as medical group development, product line expansion and marketing, and clinical operations. She has worked all over the country and has lived out west for the past 20 years.

Dayle graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Butler University in Indiana. She then obtained her Masters degree in Health Administration from Indiana University. Dayle also has obtained her Certification for Medical Practice Executives by the MGMA American College of Health Executives. In addition, Dayle is actively involved in the Association of American Medical Colleges, the University HealthSystem Consortium, the Academic Practice Plan Directors, and the American Medical Group Association.

She and her husband, Scott, live in Park City with their two children, Mallory (16) and Slater (15). When not working, Dayle enjoys traveling, yoga, hiking, reading, and spending time with her family.
